Nature of the problem, in line with the Five Freedoms:

- Freedom from hunger or thirst – the animal has little or no access to fresh water and/or food.
- Freedom from discomfort – the animal does not have somewhere to lie down or gain shelter or exposed to extreme weather conditions.
- Freedom from pain, injury or disease – the animal clearly shows disease, an untreated injury or perhaps severely overgrown hooves.
- Freedom to express (most) normal behaviour – the animal is tethered incorrectly and/or does not have sufficient space or proper facilities and living conditions
- Freedom from fear and distress – abandoned animals, those subject to dog attacks, low flying aircraft or similar or those suffering from any of the above

Please note supporting photographs are very important to demonstrate the nature and scale of the problem.
